Saloonkeeper Cowan Takes His Case Before Judge Stewart. llam H. Cowan, the saloonkeeper on Sunday at his trial before Judge Tanner Monday, and who was to have been sentenced yesterday afternoon, applied to Judge Stewart yesterday applied to Judge Stewart yesterday morning for a writ of certiorari directed to Judge Tanner. Cowan sets out that Judge Tanner exceeded his jurisdiction by refusing to grant a motion for the transfer of the case to another judge, which motion was based upon the hias and prejudice of Judge Tanner in the case, and that he afterward proceeded with the trial of the case, finding the defendant guilty and ordering him to appear for sentence at 2 o'clock him to appear for sentence at 2 o'clock vesterday afternoon. Judge Stewart granted the writ, and no further proceedings can be taken by Judge Tanner until the Third district court passes on the matter, tions he gave satisfactory replies. He was passed by both sides and neither exercised the peremptory on the final opportunity.

A novelty arose during the examination of Richard M. Carlisle, a farmer of Mill Creek. When asked in what ether case he had served as a furor, he replied the Hopp murder case.

"That would exclude the juror," said Attorney C. B. Stewart.

"What?" demanded Mr. Elchnor. "On what ground?"

"For having served as a trial juror for the same offense."

"That's a new interpretation," observed the state's attorney.

Judge Morse smilingly informed the attorney that the statute referred to

"What?" demanded Mr. Elchnor.
"On what ground?"
"For having served as a trial juror for the same offense."
"That's a new interpretation," observed the state's attorney.

Judge Morse smilingly informed the attorney that the statute referred to was to prevent one man from acting twice in the same case.

Mr. Carlisle could not get over the Sharp revelation. After being pinned down to a yes or no answer as to whether he believed God gave the revelation he replied:

"Well, then, I suppose I must say I believe it."

Would Not Hang a Man.

Richard Howe, an old resident, would have passed but for his conscients of the state vs. Peter Mickel et al. from the Seventh district went over for the term.

Says Sharp Was Deceived.

William Stoneman, who keeps a grocery store in this city, after much persuasion said he did not believe Mr. Sharp had the revelation, but that he had been deceived and believed so. The state passed the juror for cause and the defense excused him peremptorily.

J. A. Farrell and W. A. Sherman were excused for prejudices against capital punishment and circumstantial evidence.

The following were excused on actually in my cab, and when a genstantly in my cab, and when a start of this

B. Eddie of St. Mark's cathedral, who delivered the address of welcome which would have been given by Governor Wells had he not been detained at Park City.

Twelve new members were admitted as follows, making the total membership 102: W. D. Donoher of Park City. W. M. Stookey of Grantsville. W. W. Cook of Frisco, J. A. Phipps of Tooele, A. S. Condon and G. W. Baker of Ogden. W. W. Coffman and R. M. Rogers of Pleasant Grove, and F. H. Raly, E. W. Whitney, C. G. Verbryck and Henry La Motte of Salt Lake.

President Eyons delivered an address on 'Suprarenal Therapy.'' At the conclusion a general discussion followed on the topic.

Case Like That of McKinley.

The afternoon session was opened by Dr. Perkins of Ogden reading a paper on a case of gun-shot wound of the stomach and the recovery of the patient after operation, Peculiar interest attached to the case related from the fact that it was almost parallel to that of the late President McKinley. Dr. Perkins said that his patient walked a half a mile and rode a mile before being operated upon by lamp light, whereas the martyred president had immediate medical attendance. The Ogden boy had youth and vitality in his favor, but his stomach was pierced by a large bullet. His recovery was attributed mainly to the fact that immediately a drainage tube was placed in the wound.

Another paper which demanded the earnest attention of the meeting was Dr. H. S. Scott's treatise on "Antitoxin Treatment of Djphtheria." In the discussion which followed the consensus of opinion was that early, liberal and frequent injections of the lymph will almost certainly affect a cure in every to be provided for.
